WILLIS AND COX WILL OPPOSE EACH OTHER AT POLLS IN NOVEMBER

TWO MEN, FOR THE THIRD TIME IN SIX YEARS, WILL HEAD THEIR RESPECTIVE TICKETS, WILLIS HAVING BEEN DEFEATED TWO YEARS AGO BY THE MAN FROM DAYTON.

WILLIS, AVOWED DRY CANDIDATE, DEFEATED HIS OPPONENTS BY PLURALITY OF 25,000 TO 50,000

Vote at the Primary Yesterday Was Unusually Light, Owing, No Doubt, to War Conditions, Extreme Hot Weather and the Harvesting of Crops—Governor Cox Announces That, Owing to War Conditions, He Will Not Make An Active Campaign and His Opponent Says He Will Follow Suit—Republican Vote Yesterday 60,000 Short of Two Years Ago.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Columbus, Aug. 14.—Additional returns from yesterday's state-wide primary election received at the office of secretary of state, indicates no change in probable results announced last night. In practically every instance additional returns only served to increase the leads already obtained by the probable nominees.

Former Governor Frank B. Willis indicated plurality of more than 25,000 over Edwin Jones of Jackson, for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, was being steadily increased by later returns. It now appears certain that his plurality will be in excess of 30,000, and may reach close to 50,000. Practically all the big city counties have reported on governor and the rural counties are coming in strong for Willis, the vote often being more than 4-to-1 for the former governor. Complete and incomplete returns on governor received from 39 counties at the secretary of state's office at noon gave Willis 69,379; Jones, 47,320; Arnold, 7826.

Clarence Brown of West Union, Adams county, probably will receive the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor by a safe plurality, as indicated by the returns from 27 counties. Though tabulations from these 27 counties show both Agler and Norton to be leading Brown. Agler's vote includes the Hamilton county vote where he was on the organization slate, and Norton's vote includes that of Cuyahoga county, his home. Outside of these two counties, Brown is gaining fast as returns come in. The tabulated vote on lieutenant governor follows:

Agler, 18,707; Brown, 13,552; Buckley, 10,086; Herr, 6040; Kiouss, 4056; McDonald, 10,285; Norton, 13,688; Swan, 5600. McDonald probably will be Brown's closest competitor.

Judge Harvey C. Smith of Zanesville, appears to have received the Republican nomination for secretary of state by a safe plurality. In 27 counties he was leading his closest opponent—Fred M. Hopkins of Fostoria—by 13,000. John G. Price of Columbus, will be nominated attorney general by a safe plurality over A. Jay Miller of Bellefontaine.

Supreme Court Judge R. M. Wanamaker is leading the field of five candidates for renomination. Secretary of state's returns indicate that James E. Robinson of Marysville, will be the other nominee with Reynolds R. Kinkade of Toledo, close on his heels. Oscar W. Newman of Portsmouth, and Phil M. Crow of Kenton, appear to be easy winners for the Democratic nomination for supreme judge.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Columbus, Aug. 14.—For the third time in six years, Frank B. Willis, republican, of Delaware and James M. Cox, democrat of Dayton, will oppose each other for the governorship at the November election in Ohio this year.

This was decided at the state wide primary election held yesterday. Willis, an avowed dry, defeated Edwin Jones, of Jackson, and John H. Arnold, of Columbus, by from 25,000 to 50,000 votes according to estimates based on complete but unofficial returns from approximately half the precincts of the state. Cox was renominated without opposition.

Including practically all precincts from Hamilton county, which was the only locality in the state giving Jones an overwhelming vote, 2332 out of 5762 precincts in the state gave Willis 69,948; Jones 45,266 and Arnold 6694. Outside of Hamilton county, Willis was leading Jones 2 to 1. The tabulated vote gave him a majority over Jones and Arnold. Jones led Willis in Hamilton county by a 6 to 1 vote.

Cox and Willis will meet again this fall each with a victory to his credit. In 1914 Willis defeated Cox, then Governor. In 1916, Cox defeated Willis then governor. Governor Cox has announced that he will not make an active campaign. Mr. Willis has indicated that he too, will not do much campaigning because of the war.

Yesterday's primary vote was unusually light. Politicians ascribed this to war conditions, the absence in the army of many voters, the extreme hot weather and the harvesting of crops. Th returns were slow in coming in and definite results on minor contests may not be known for a day or two. Yesterday's total republican vote was about 125,000 about 60,000 under two years ago.

However, figures received by the secretary of state's office early today indicated that the following result (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

FRENCH CONTINUE ADVANCE OF THEIR BATTLE FRONT LINE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Paris, Aug. 14.—In comparison with the quick advance of the first four days the battle in Picardy now may seem to be stagnant, but nevertheless, the French have pushed nearer to the Chaumes-Roye-Lassigny-Noyon line to which the Germans are clinging desperately. It took the allies a fortnight to get the Germans from the Marne to the Vesle.

The ground between the Aves and the Oise is much more difficult than north of the Marne, being a labyrinth of small wooded hills in and out of which the troops have to worm themselves, surrounding and reducing each summit separately and successfully. It is no easy task. The enemy laid out his positions long ago so he is able to defend them with groups of picked machine gunners who have orders—which they invariably obey to the letter—to resist until killed. Consequently every inch of ground requires not only determination in overcoming, but experienced skill.

Tuesday's fighting put the French more than a mile north of Cambronne, close to Attiche and Carmin farms, which are two big machine-gun nests.

The French left advancing on Lassigny met with vigorous resistance, north of St. Claude farm and north of Mareil-Lamotte. However, they succeeded in fighting their way through the woods and moved their line 800 yards northeast of Gury. North of Gury they reached the southern edge of Loges wood and also penetrated the park belonging to the chateau of Plessier-de-Roye. They also reached Belval, between Plessier-de-Roye and Thiescourt.

The enemy still holds the greater part of Thiescourt wood and the formidable plateau of Plemont. The French now have advanced their line to within less than a mile and a half of Lassigny. It will, however, undoubtedly require a tremendous effort to capture either Lassigny or Roye. The fall of Roye would automatically cause the evacuation of Lassigny.

PROTEST AGAINST PRICE OF RICE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Tokio, Aug. 11.—Six thousand demonstrators against the high price of rice have destroyed stores at Kyoto, forcing the authorities to call out the troops. Several members of the crowd, which was armed with swords and axes, were wounded. The residence of the governor at Nagoya was surrounded by 15,000 persons demanding relief.

The governor is arranging for the sale of rice to poor at cost.

PREVY OHIO STATE WILL GO TO FRANCE
Columbus, Aug. 14.—Announcement was made here today that President W. O. Thompson of Ohio State university has been appointed a member of the federal agricultural commission which will be sent to France soon to aid that country in reclaiming devastated land for agricultural purposes. While Dr. Thompson is abroad, Dean John Adams of the law college will be acting president of the university.

AUGUST 24 IS DAY NAMED FOR REGISTRATION

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, Aug. 14.—Registration on Saturday, August 24, all youths who have reached the age of 21 since the second registration last June 5, was ordered today by Provost Marshal General Crowder, under a proclamation by the president. The purpose is to add quickly to the almost exhausted Class 1 to meet army draft calls in September.

About 150,000 young men will register. Most of them will qualify for Class 1, and, therefore, will join the army probably within a month after their names are recorded.

Telegraphic orders to local authorities to arrange for the registration have already been distributed. President Wilson's proclamation expects the territories of Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico from the registration temporarily, but a later date will be fixed for these. Only men in the armed service are exempted from registration.

It was pointed out at the provost marshal general's office that this registration would be entirely distinct from the registration that will be necessary shortly when the draft ages are extended, and it also was announced that the suggested date—September 5—would not be the day for the registration of men from 18 to 45, even if congress passes the bill in time because several of the largest states in the Union hold primary elections on that date.

The provost marshal has no intention, it was said, of creating registration dates for men reaching 21 throughout the year, but the present registration was made necessary by the approaching deficiency of manpower.

EXPECT 13,000 WILL REGISTER IN OHIO

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Columbus, Aug. 14.—Major W. S. Peeler, in charge of the Ohio state draft board, announced this morning that he had received word from Washington ordering a registration in Ohio on August 24 of youths who became 21 years of age after June 5, 1918, the last registration day. Thirteen thousand Ohio men are expected to register.

Arrangements are under consideration to have draft advisory boards sit on the same day at the registration places, and to have each registrant fill out his questionnaire immediately after he registers. In this way the new registrants could be classified immediately and those in Class 1 called for service without delay.

STILL ANOTHER

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 14.—Registration of youths who have reached 21 since June 5, 1918, will be held August 24, according to a telegram received from Provost Marshal General E. H. Crowder at state draft headquarters today. This registration, should not be confused with that pending under new legislation for some time in September.

RAILWAY SHOPMEN RETURN ACCOUNT OF INCREASED WAGES

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, August 14.—Higher wages recently granted railroad shopmen have resulted in recalling to railway employment more than 5,000 workmen who had left previously to accept jobs with higher pay. This has stimulated repair work on cars and locomotives and the railroad administration expects to clean up before winter the entire accumulation of thousands of damaged cars on sidings for the last year.

FLYING CADET KILLED.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Rantoul, Ill., August 14.—Lieutenant J. W. Johnson, a cadet at Chanute aviation field was killed today when his plane fell at Gifford, six miles east of here. Another aviator in the plane was only slightly hurt. The plane fell about 1,000 feet.

AMERICANS IN FIGHTING NORTH OF THE SOMME

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, August 14.—Official reports to the American government show that the Franco-British and American thrusts in Picardy extended over a 53-mile front and had attained a maximum penetration of 15 miles up to yesterday. General March, chief of staff, disclosed this today in his semi-weekly conference with newspaper correspondents adding that at no point is the enemy now within fifty miles of Paris.

In the center, General March said the present line stands along the old front of 1916-17 before the German withdrawal to the so-called Hindenburg line. To the north that line has been crossed in places but in the south the French have not yet reached it in their advance on Lassigny and up the valley of the Oise.

General March identified the 131st Infantry regiment of the 33rd Division, composed largely of Illinois National Guardsmen, as the American unit engaged at Chilly, north of the Somme, on the British left flank, where a desperate German counter attack was repulsed and three officers, 150 men and seven 105 millimetre guns were taken by this one regiment.

The chief of staff took occasion to urge newspaper men to discourage the use of the nickname "Sammy" in speaking of American troops. The term is disliked by the men themselves, he said, and appeared foolish to the French and British as applied to the big, virile American fighting men.

The Twenty-eighth division, General March said, was in positions near Dormans on July 16 and participated in the advance across the Ourcq river on July 26 when the attack against the German line attained its full momentum and thrust the enemy back to the Vesle. The 28th was flanked on one side by the Forty Second (Rainbow) and on the other by the Third regular division. Its position in the line was between Sergy and Roncheres.

The work of the American troops both on the French and British fronts, General March said, continues to win the highest praise from the allied commanders.

General Pershing's announcement of the formation of the first field army shows it was organized on August 10 and in this connection General March disclosed that there were (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5.)

"FLYING CIRCUS" STARTS ON FIRST LEG OF JOURNEY

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Dayton, O., Aug. 14.—Ten American airplanes left their hangars at the Wilbur Wright aviation field at 10 o'clock this morning for the first "leg" of the 2400-mile flight around the central western states, as an educational campaign in the interests of progressive aviation. The machines started for Cincinnati, where they will be joined by three British machines under Brigadier General Lee. R. F. C. Major C. K. Rhinehardt of Hazelhurst field, Mineola, L. I., led the American "flying circus." He arrived here late last night, after a 700-mile flight over the Alleghenies in which the under-carriage of his "skull-and-crossbones" machine was broken. The machines are expected to return to Dayton for the night.

ARRIVE AT CINCINNATI.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Cincinnati, Aug. 14.—Three American airplanes led by Major C. K. Rhinehardt and two British planes led by Brigadier General Charles F. Lee have arrived here, the former from Dayton and the latter from Indianapolis. Six more planes are on their way and are expected to be in shortly. They are scheduled to give exhibitions over the city late this afternoon just previous to their start on their 3,000-mile air cruise to points in the middle west and the west.

Returns on the vote for congressional candidates in the Seventeenth district, comprising the counties: Licking, Delaware, Knox, Ashland, Richland and Coshocton, show that William A. Ashbrook has carried every precinct over his opponent.

WILLIAM A. ASHBROOK,

George D. Neal, of Mt. Vernon, so far reported, and the indications are that he has won the nomination by a vote of about four-to-one. The only places in the district where Mr. Neal developed any strength were in Newark and Mansfield.

The race for the Republican nomination in this district between William M. Morgan of Newark, and David W. Wood, has been won by Mr. Morgan, according to the incomplete figures at hand, Wednesday afternoon.

SUB AT GATE OF NEW YORK HARBOR SINKS A TANKER

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, Aug. 14.—A German submarine, approaching the very gates of New York harbor sunk the oil tanker Frederick B. Kellogg off the Ambrose channel last night. Thirty-five members of the crew brought here today reported that seven others are missing. These survivors were picked up by an American steamship.

The Frederick B. Kellogg was a new tank steamship of 7,127 tons gross register, valued at more than $1,500,000. She was on her way from Tampico, Mex., to Boston with a cargo of approximately 79,000 barrels of crude oil.

FINNISH MUST FIGHT FOR KAISER

HUMBERT'S ARMY, OPERATING ON SOUTHERN END OF PICARDY, CLASHING WITH DESPERATE HUNS IN THE DEFENSE OF THE CHAULNES ROAD.

ENEMY CLINGING TO THE CHAULNES HEIGHTS, WHICH THEY SEEM DETERMINED TO RETAIN

British Troops Gain Further Ground in the Flanders Salient and Also Advance Their Line East of Meteren and Vieux-Berquin—German Artillery Was Active During the Night on the Picardy Battle Front—Local Attacks Repulsed by the British on the Northern Side of the Lys Salient—But Little Change in the Situation On the New Somme Battle Front.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Paris, August 14.—1:05 p. m.—General Humbert's army, operating on the southern end of the Picardy battle line, is reported today to be progressing steadily toward Noyon. The desperate German defense of the Chaulnes-Roye road has caused delay in the storming of the Noyon position, which is now said to be impending. The army of General Rawlinson, which is holding the line just to the north of the French positions, is meeting most desperate resistance along its whole front. The Germans seem determined to retain the Chaulnes heights at all costs.

GAIN MORE GROUND.
(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
London, Aug. 14.—British troops have gained further ground at the apex of the Lys salient in Flanders, says the official statement from Field Marshal Haig today. East of Meteren the line was advanced slightly while east of Vieux-Berquin, south of Meteren, patrols established a new line.

There was no infantry fighting during the night on the British sector of the Picardy battlefield, says the official statement from Field Marshal Haig today. The German artillery was active.

Tuesday, the British threw back German local attacks on the northern side of the Lys salient. Last night the German artillery was very active in this region.

LITTLE CHANGE ON THE SOMME BATTLEFRONT

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
With the British Army in France, Aug. 14.—(10:30 a. m.)—There was no change in the situation on the new Somme battlefield this morning, except for the fact that a considerable increased artillery fire indicated that the enemy has finally decided to bring up more of his guns. Various small artillery concentrations have sprung up during the last few hours and are now active in firing on some points within the British lines, such as Vauvillers, Framerville, Proyart, Lihons, Dernancourt and the forward areas south of the Villers-Bretonneux-Chaulnes railway.

The Germans have also subjected the valley north of Morlaucourt to heavy gas-shelling and have similarly treated Harbonnières and the Gressaire wood region.

No further counter-attacks by the enemy are reported.

In the region of Bray, north of the Somme, as well as immediately south of the river, the British have been actively straightening and pushing forward their line. Northwest of Bray the British entered the enemy lines and found them unoccupied. Except for a little increase in the raiding activity by both sides, which is customary immediately following a battle for the purpose of ascertaining possible changes in dispositions, the remainder of the British front is in a normal state.

(Compiled from A. P. Dispatches.)
While there have been no definite reports of a resumption of the drive against the German positions on the southern end of the Picardy battle line, dispatches from Paris this afternoon would seem to indicate that fresh progress has been made there by General Humbert's army.

It is said that the French are advancing steadily on Noyon and, while the stubborn defense of the Chaulnes-Roye road has delayed operations the storming of the Noyon positions is impending.

Further north, the British army, commanded by General Rawlinson, is known to be encountering desperate resistance along its whole front. It is at a virtual standstill and the advances show that the Germans holding the Chaulnes heights seem determined to cling to their positions at all costs.

The French army on the southern end of the battlefield was at least five and a half miles from Noyon, according to latest detailed reports.

Allied progress eastward in Picardy with the Germans fighting desperately for every vantage point, continue to be slow. On the northern end of the front, the British and Germans are occupied mainly with reciprocal artillery bombardments, while on the south the French have advanced further toward Lassigny in heavy fighting.

From Morlaucourt south to Lihons, the British apparently are consolidating the captured ground while the artillery is being brought up to bombard the Germans who maintain themselves in the old positions of 1916-17, west of the upper course of the Somme. The infantry activity here Tuesday was comparatively quiet. Field Marshal Haig reports, but there seems to be little doubt that the British are only awaiting a favorable opportunity to again hit the German line.

In the hill and wooded region between the Matz and the Oise, the French have made appreciable gains and are reported, unofficially, to be holding the important massif of Lassigny against German attacks. North of Bray the French are fighting forward in the park south of Plessier-de-Roye, while to the east they have reached Belval, one and one-half miles south of Lassigny. At Belval, the French outflank the western end of the heights, south of Lassigny. East of Belval the Germans apparently have been able to hold the French in check. Along the west bank of the Oise the French have (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3.)

LIGHT VOTE CAST AT THE PRIMARY HELD IN LICKING COUNTY YESTERDAY

The primary election in Licking county passed off very quietly yesterday and from all outward indications there seemed to be but little interest manifested in the result, except the candidates and their friends.

The polls opened at 6:30 o'clock and closed at 6:30 and the first returns to be received at the election board came in at 8 o'clock and the last two to be received came in at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, they being Hopewell township and Utica North. Had it not been for the light vote cast returns would possibly still be coming in Thursday morning.

That the vote was light was due possibly to several causes. The farmers are busy with their crops and the excessive hot weather also kept many away from the polls while scores of others interested in the war news have tabored politics, especially at the primary. The light vote demonstrates also that the primary system does not seem to be popular with the masses.

All of the vote had not been tabulated by the election board up until the hour of going to press but the totals on heads of tickets and several offices where there was a close contest was as follows, the vote being for both city and county:

Governor.
J. M. Cox, D., 2323.
Frank B. Willis, R., 1828.
Edwin M. Jones, R., 506.
John H. Arnold, R., 71.

THE VICTORY LIST BUYERS 200 W. S. S. IS STILL GROWING

New members of the $1000 War Savings society, bringing the total to 518, are:

Union township Chairman J. W. Bartholow, reports 100 war stamp pledges, and cash sales amounting to $19,335—thus putting Union over the top in splendid fashion. The Union township men of the war-work organization have made a fine showing in the Liberty loan, war chest and war savings campaign. Many people in Union township are on the "Victory List."

R. B. Buxton, Monroe township chairman, submits a report of $8 W. S. S. subscriptions for 4226 War Savings stamps, representing $21,130 maturity value. Mr. Buxton sends a list of 16 members of the "Limit Club," buyers of 200 stamps. Monroe always goes over the top. Johnstown has a "Victory List" bulletin board similar to the one in the Newark courthouse square. Upon it are posted the names of Monroe township buyers of 200 W. S. S.

Pledge-cards, signed last week, are being distributed to the banks and postoffices, but it will be several days before the work is finished. Many cards are still coming to the local committee. As soon as possible the cards are classified and distributed.

If the name of any buyer of 200 W. S. S. has been omitted from the published list or from the courthouse park bulletin board, the committee asks that the name be sent in. Phone Auto 23,124. Those who sell 200 stamps to one person are asked to report the name. Publication is withheld upon request.

COX AND WILLIS

publicans were nominated for state offices, outside of governorship.

Lieutenant governor: Clarence J. Brown, of Adams county. A. C. McDonald of Dayton, appeared to be a close second.

Secretary of state: Harvey C. Smith, of Zanesville, with Fred M. Hopkins of Fostoria his nearest competitor.

Attorney general: John G. Price, of Columbus. A. J. Miller, of Bellefontaine, opposed Price.

Successful democratic candidates for judge of the supreme court appeared to be Oscar W. Newman, of Portsmouth and Phil M. Crow, of Kenton. The republican nominees indicated by available returns are R. W. Wamsamaker, of Akron and James E. Robinson, of Mansville. Judge R. R. Kinkade of Toledo, ran a close third and indications were that he might nose out Robinson. Nominees for supreme court will run for election on a non-partisan ballot in November. R. W. Archer of Bellaire, former state treasurer, had no opposition for republican renomination.

Democratic candidates nominated without opposition yesterday for reelection are:

Lieutenant Governor—Earl D. Bloom of Bowling Green.

Secretary of State: W. D. Fulton of Newark.

Attorney General: Joseph McGhee, of Columbus.

Treasurer: Chester E. Bryan, of London.

Dry leaders today claimed a large majority in the lower house of the legislature, no matter whether democrats or republicans are elected in November. It was admitted that in the face of incomplete returns the senate is still in doubt. Interest centers in the makeup of the legislature, as the next general assembly will act upon ratification of the federal prohibition amendment to the constitution.

Reports from Cleveland indicate that Congressman Crosser and Gordon were defeated in their districts, Babka and Mooney winning. A bitter fight was made against both Crosser and Gordon by the democratic organization which charged that the candidates for re-election with failure to support the administration's war program.

In the fourteenth congressional district, Charles Dick, former U. S. senator from Ohio seemed to have been defeated for nomination for congress by S. H. Williams, former congressman from that district.

In the twelfth district, John C. Speaks, recently honorably discharged as a brigadier general in the National Guard and for years state fish and game warden, received the republican nomination for congress over John E. Todd, former state senator and Karl T. Weber.

Following are the nominees for congress in the various districts as indicated by unofficial returns.

First district: Democrat: Sidney G. Strickler; Republican: Nicholas Longworth.

Second district: Democrat: Richard A. Powell; Republican: A. E. B. Stephens.

Third district: Democrat: Warren Ward; Republican: Charles W. Dustin.

Fourth district: Democrat: Benjamin F. Welty; Republican: J. E. Russell.

Fifth district: Democrat: John D. Snook; Republican: Clark Good.

Sixth district: Democrat: A. G. Turney; Republican: J. E. Kearns.

Seventh district: Democrat: George H. Thorne; Republican: S. D. Foss.

Eighth district: Democrat: John A. Key; Republican: E. C. Cole.

Ninth district: Democrat: Isaac R. Sherwood; Republican: James Ashley.

Tenth district: Democrat: No candidate; Republican: Robert M. Switzer.

Eleventh district: Democrat: Horatio C. Claypool; Republican: Edwin D. Ricketts.

Twelfth district: Clement Brumbaugh; Republican: John C. Speaks.

Thirteenth district: Democrat: Arthur Overmeyer; Republican: John T. Pegg.

Fourteenth district: Democrat: Martin L. Davey; Republican: S. H. Williams.

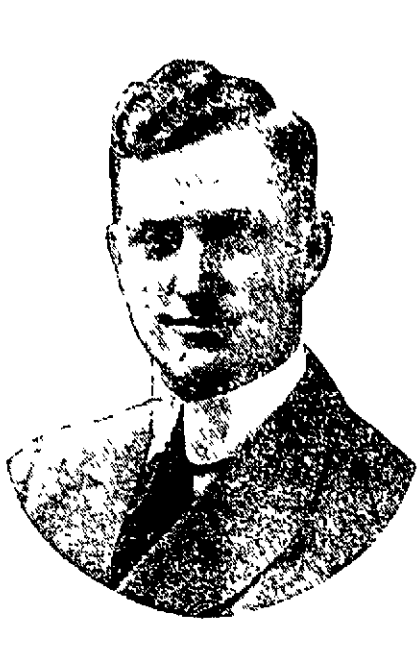

Fifteenth district: Democrat: George White; Republican: C. Ellis Moore.

Sixteenth district: Democrat: Joseph C. Breitenstein; Republican: Roscoe C. McCulloch.

ALLIED TROOPS

gained one and one-half miles toward Noyon.

So much the mass of Lassigny is in danger of being lost to the Germans if they already have not been forced from the higher points.

German prisoners taken at Beval numbered 177, and they declared they had been ordered to hold on at all costs. The high ground is important to the enemy because French tanks placed there could command all the terrain northward toward Reims and eastward toward Noyon.

With the mass in possession of the French the Germans probably would be forced to evacuate Lassigny and Noyon, and possibly the entire line southward from Chaulnes. This would have some effect on the enemy positions eastward to Rheims depending on how far the Germans could have to retire before reaching a new defensive line, which most probably would be through Noyon and Guiscard and based on Ham. Field Marshal Haig reports that since last Thursday the allies have captured 25,000 prisoners and 600 guns. Several thousand machine guns and much war material also are taken.

Aerial activity continues intense. German planes are engaging the allied fliers in combat to prevent reconnaissance and bombing work. Forty-eight German machines were accounted for Monday and 74 tons of bombs dropped on military targets behind the enemy lines. Berlin reports the shooting down of 23 allied airplanes.

Berlin reports that all allied efforts Monday were repulsed, especially attacks by strong French forces between the Matz and the Oise.

Patrol activity continues in Flanders, but there are no indications that heavy fighting is about to begin there. Along the Meuse the Germans have not repeated their ineffectual attacks, but are bombing the Franco-American lines with high explosive and gas shells. It is announced that the American first army, which has just been ordered, will hold the western front south of the Marne, which probably means from St. Mihiel to Switzerland, where the allied positions are near the German border or beyond it.

Much material damage was done at Frankfurt and Karlsruhe by recent British aerial bombardments, according to reports received in Switzerland. In Karlsruhe 11 persons were killed and 26 were injured.

German submarines sank two French steamers in the Mediterranean in mid July. From the transport Dromedary 342 men are missing. Seven sailors were killed in the torpedoing of the steamer Australian, and three passengers are missing.

ALEXANDRIA TO INDIAN SCHOOL. A telegram from the British government to the Indian school at Alexandria, Egypt, dated July 12, says that the British government has decided to send a thousand British troops to the Indian school at Alexandria.

then 31 American divisions in France and the field army included approximately 1,250,000 men. The organization of additional corps and subsequently of additional armies will proceed without delay, he added, and eventually General Pershing will take command of all the armies leaving command of each to a general officer whom he may select.

It is assumed that General Pershing had taken over his own staff as the staff of the First Field Army. In that case Major General James V. McAndrew, is the chief of staff both of the army and of the American expeditionary forces.

General March was asked as to the truth of reports that the American forces north of the Marne lacked adequate air service. General Pershing's dispatches make no mention of any such condition, he replied and added that a specific report as to the operation of airplanes in action and the conditions in that regard had been asked of the American commander, the substance of which will be made public when received.

General March said no American troops had landed in Siberia.

The 131st infantry of the 33rd U. S. division has been engaged in the fighting north of the Somme and particularly in the repulse of an enemy counter-attack at Chipilly.

General March said today at his semi-weekly conference with newspaper correspondents. This regiment alone captured three officers, 150 men and seven 105 millimeter guns.

General March briefly reviewed the situation in the Picardy salient where the lines now have reached the general position of the front in 1916 before the Hindenburg withdrawal. At no point is the enemy now within fifty miles of Paris.

The Picardy salient has been trimmed away on a front of 53 miles to a maximum depth of 15 miles, the chief of staff said, and the line on the Aisne-Marne front has remained stationary. American troops have recaptured Flismette, on the north bank of the Vesle, from which they were driven.

Discussing the work of the 28th division comprising Pennsylvania guardsmen in the Aisne-Marne salient General March said the only report of its casualties received was that 400 men had been hit during four hours on July 30 in the advance to the Vesle.

The 131st regiment is composed of Illinois National guardsmen and is attached to the Sixty-sixth brigade of infantry in the 33rd division commanded by Major General George Bell. The troops were trained at Camp Logan, Texas.

FORMER NEWARKITE TENDERED SPLENDID FAREWELL DINNER

The following, taken from the Ridgeway, (Pa.) Record, relates to a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Baldwin, 50 Mill street, this city, who left Newark about six years ago to accept a position with the Hyde-Murphy company; he was formerly employed by the Pratt-Kirk company of this city:

"The Elks club rooms was the scene of a happy yet touching scene last evening, when the officers of the Hyde-Murphy company tendered a dinner to Mr. M. Baldwin, who leaves this afternoon for Camp Wadsworth, Spangsbury, S. C., with the Elk county contingent of 28 draftees. The dinner was served at 7 o'clock and that it was elegant in ever respect goes without saying. Fully 20 of Mr. Baldwin's recent office associates were present.

Mr. Baldwin has been employed in the offices of the Ridgeway company for the past six years, and registered when the means was taken to raise an army to uphold this country's honor.

"Immediately after the dinner in a presentation speed, W. P. Murphy commented on Mr. Baldwin's long period of services by expressing the belief that he would serve Uncle Sam as he has always served his employer. At the conclusion of Mr. Murphy's speech he presented Mr. Baldwin with a wrist-watch, handsomely engraved, bearing the words: 'From fellow-employees office Hyde-Murphy Co., Ridgeway, Pa., 1918.'

"Mr. Baldwin responded in a very touching manner, expressing his deep appreciation of the gift, and assuring his fellow-employees that their token of friendship would always be a constant reminder of the Hyde-Murphy force."

WAR WILL RESULT IN IMPROVEMENT FROM EUGENIC STANDPOINT

(Associated Press Telegram)

London, Aug. 14.—An Italian scientist in a book just published on the subject of war and population, says that there will be in England 121 women between the ages of 20 and 44 to every 100 men between those ages if the war ends next year in 1919 the proportion was 108 to 100.

In France there will be 124 women of those ages, the writer estimates, to every 100 men. In Germany where the sexes were almost evenly balanced before the war, the proportion will be 119 women to 100 men.

Eugenically in all the fighting countries the war will cause an improvement, the scientist believes, because every man in taking a wife will have a larger selection of women to choose from, and therefore he will be likely to choose the healthiest and strongest.

GOMPERS OBJECTS TO WORK OR FIGHT IN THE NEW BILL

Washington, Aug. 14.—Organized laborers emphatic opposition to any work or fight provision in the new man power bill extending the draft ages is expressed in a letter from Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, received today by members of the senate military committee.

TO UTILIZE THE WASTE MATERIAL

Under a proposition presented by the Harrison Co-operative Service company of New York City, the City Hospital will profit in the near future from the collection of waste matter in the city.

The company proposes to place receptacles in every home in the city, permitting them to remain about three days, when the refuse will be collected by trucks provided by the company. In the receptacles may be placed water materials and rags of all kinds, but no shoes or papers, which will then place the material on a car and when it is weighed will give the City Hospital 1 1/2 cents on every pound collected. As a guaranty they place $500 in the Newark Trust company to assure good faith in the payment of the money.

CARTWRIGHT-HEYMAN.

A pretty wedding took place Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Heyman in East Main street when their daughter, Marie, Louise, became the bride of Mr. Samuel H. Cartwright of Pittsburgh, Pa. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father C. Watterson, the immediate family being present.

The bride wore a dress of white gorgette crepe trimmed with satin and a corsage bouquet of bride roses. The bride was a talented young musician and is very popular among the younger social set of the city. The groom is employed by the Freedom Oil Works company of Freeport, Pa. He was formerly a student at Princeton University, leaving his studies to enter business.

Mr. and Mrs. Cartwright left at noon for a wedding trip to Cleveland and other lake points, and after their return will make their home in Pittsburgh.

Don't be too previous. Many a fellow has lost out waiting for other people to catch up to him.

Cocoon Oil Fine

For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulified cocoon oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulified cocoon oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

SERGEANT PRIEST SENDS INTERESTING LETTER FROM FRANCE

The following letter has been received by Mrs. S. C. Priest of North Fifth street, from her son Sergeant Ralph B. Priest, of Bat. B, 324th P. A. Am., Forces:

It has been over a week since I have written. The last time was in England. We left the next day and crossed to France. The trip across the channel was uneventful, except for some very pretty scenery along the shore of England. Could see three or four old castles. From a distance they did not look old except for the style of architecture. Each transport had its own convoy. The speedy little boats look like fireflies on the water for they are constantly flashing signals with a light. We were issued rations on the boat for our breakfast and feasted on cheese, hard tack and coffee. Made the coffee in the English way—each man was given spoon full of coffee in his cup which he filled with boiling water. It held us until we got to a rest camp near the French port and got our first American meal in several weeks. All the mess sergeants went from the dock to the camp in a truck and drew rations before the regiment arrived. Had one kitchen for the regiment and a regimental mess—about 1700 men. The men were much pleased to get some real coffee again—that seemed to count more than anything else.

We stayed in that camp about two days and then moved. Boarded a train of box cars and traveled a full day. All troop transportation seems to be in box cars and the trains make very slow time—ours averaged only about 10 miles per hour and the fellows could get out and run along side with the train. Going down grade it would speed up but rather long and frequent stops cut down the mileage. The country was mountainous and we passed over many steep grades and through tunnels. The countryside looked quaint and old fashioned. Every available piece of land is used. Hay was cut and collected off of the railroad right of way. We left the train in the evening and pitched shelter tents near a small town in a farming community. Are far from the front. Days are hot and weather dry. Nights are agreeably cool. Are now billeted among the people of the town but most of the men sleep in the open in their shelter tents. Rations are hauled quite a distance by motor truck and the variety limited at present, but expect improvement within a day or two. It is all new for everyone now and a new camp with no Q. M. here. The people are primitive and raise only enough off their land for their own use and can buy very little food stuff. They raise grain and cattle for the market, have very little poultry and very small gardens. Their methods and implements for work and farming are those of 200 years ago. All transportation is by 2 wheel carts, in many cases drawn by oxen and even cows. One automobile is the only modern thing in town. Lumber is cut by means of a hand saw. I saw two men working two days to cut one small log into heavy boards for wagon material and they worked hard at it. All the homes are of stone and many are plastered outside. The houses are very well constructed and would last indefinitely. You cannot tell from their appearance how old they are. I have seen some that are 70 years old and look new now. The stone is excellent building material and the cracks have been retouched. The tenant houses, barn and sheds are all in one. Fences are of mud and remind one of the moundbuilders' work at home. All water is taken from deep dug wells and the troops are permitted to drink only boiled water. This is a great apple country and cider and a kind of cider wine is made and seems to be the main beverage. It can be purchased for about 5c per quart at any house and over half the houses and stores have that and other wines for sale. In normal times I would imagine that the widest reciprocity would be necessary to provide customers.

The fields of grain look fine. The live stock is all large and well bred. I have not seen poorly bred or small horses in either England, or France and most of them are of as good stock as I ever saw. On some distant hills I can see several windmills like those of Holland.

Our battery is billeted in three different places—the farthest about 1-2 miles away. We operate two messes one at each extreme. I make about two trips daily to the other cook house—in the mornings and evenings if possible to avoid a long walk in the hot sun at noon. My chief difficulties at present are getting foodstuffs and enough of it and the preservation of fresh meat in this heat. Messes consist simply of what we have. I am picking up a little French. About like the foreigners do in the U. S. Pronunciation and accent are difficult and seems to make a lot of difference to them.

The people are most hospitable and glad to do anything for the men. There are no young men and few young women around here. They are in the service—I understand most of the girls are acting as nurses. Have seen several French soldiers home on sick leave and a few who have been incapacitated in the service. One fellow on agricultural leave showed us scars where he had been wounded and some pictures he had taken from some German in an encounter. I saw a company of English troops that looked extremely strong and robust. In contrast to their civilian population. The Australians look very picturesque with a hat something like ours, with the brim pinned up on the right side.

I find my impressions of the British and French characteristics soundly confirmed. For instance, the British troops show that they don't like the war, that it worries them and that they hope and sometimes really believe it will soon be over. Some seem to think they have the Germans almost whipped now. On the other hand the French seem to take it happily are always in good spirits and don't worry at all about when it will end and from those whose views I have heard, they expect the war to go a year or two yet. The English talk about it ending in a few months.

Sunday:

The days continue to be clear and hot. The men all have intensive close order drill every morning and do fatigue work or march to the river in the afternoon. Sunday is same as other days. Those who wanted to go to church were excused from drill and marched to church in a body. It was one thing or the other for everyman. Services at 10 is none-sectarian and two masses are also held by the regiment chaplain. Incidentally I find him a very fine man and always solicitous of the men's comfort and welfare. He very often calls at different messes and messes himself on the regular rations. I worked hard most all day, harder than usual, and went to church this morning. Let two cooks off and Daring and got supper—cold salmon, hard bread and coffee. Our C. O. and one Lieut. now eat at our mess. Am now buying new potatoes and butter out of mess and battery funds. Both are very expensive.

Today the people from the surrounding community were in town in large numbers for church. After church most of them seem to spend some time in the many cafes, which really are one room of a dwelling used to sell cider and wine.

Many chimneys made of a crucifix are scattered around the country usually in some grove. We get very little news of the war. Can get French papers but they contain little more than the official reports and of course it is tedious for me to work much news out of them.

Sunday, 7-14-18:

Sunday again—one week since I have written. Been busy most of the time. Often expect to have a few hours in the afternoon but something always turns up to do. Rations are coming regularly now and we dray for the battery every day in the morning. Men have plenty to eat now and I manage to keep from starving. Are fortunate enough to get fresh beef often enough to have it every day.

It started to rain the first part of the week and rains now in showers every day. It is much cooler too. Today I moved my bunk under a shed with a good tight roof. I have the kit bag that Frances gave me, on the wall and am as comfortably fixed as when in Sherman.

Yesterday the Frenchman who owns this place where we stay asked me over to his garden to pick what he called strawberries. Said they had more than they could use and that I was welcome to them if I would send someone to pick them. So Butch and I went over with him and his wife and mother. We picked a couple of quarts off just a few bushes. He had a fine treat on them for breakfast this morning. I haven't tasted anything that tasted finer for a long time. They were red raspberries instead of strawberries.

The people have a big black St. Bernard dog that they keep chained all the time. I have been taking him out and hitching him to the cart we use to carry rations. By taking him out and feeding him something he has learned to know me and barks and pulls on his chain whenever he sees me. Some dog—pulled almost a 1000 pound load on the lever. Would hardly do for a house dog.

We can now get copies of the Chicago Herald that are printed in Paris with the latest news right up to date. It certainly is fine to get them for I have missed getting newspapers as much as anything.

Nothing new of interest has been happening so will close and mail this. R. B. P.

From Corp. Carl W. Duncan, Editor of the Advocate: It is a great pleasure to me to acknowledge receipt of the beautiful medal which I received from you several days ago, and also your kind letter which accompanied it and I wish to thank you for it. I certainly appreciate this remembrance from the people of Newark and Licking county, as it shows that their hearts and best wishes are with us, and I am doing my best, (and I know that all the other boys are too) to show the people back home that we are appreciative of their thoughts and best wishes.

THE LOCAL TICKET.

The vote at yesterday's primary election in Ohio was light due in part to oppressive weather but more to the fact that the people are thinking about the war rather than politics. The small vote is noticeable in both Republican and Democratic returns.

Here in Licking county the Democratic vote in some of the precincts was almost normal as a result of the activity of the workers but the hot weather, the interest in the war work and the fact that men are busy on their farms or in the factories combined to keep many away from the polls.

The ticket that was nominated yesterday by the Democracy is everywhere recognized as exceptionally strong and as the primary campaign was conducted from start to finish along right lines, there are no "sore spots" among the unsuccessful candidates. There was no bitter personal animosity injected into the campaign and consequently good feeling prevails. The fight was clean and fair and the successful candidates may depend upon the full support of their former opponents during the campaign which begins today and ends on November 5th at the election.

Later issues will refer in detail to the personality of the candidates for election and their fitness for office. This may be said now, however. The Democratic party deserves congratulation for nominating a list of capable and honest men. So long as tickets are made up of men of this character the Democratic party may look forward with confidence to the result on election day.

PAPER SAVING.

The War Industries Board is about to promote a new campaign for saving paper. Publishers, stores, homes, hotels, and factories will be asked to co-operate. Few other commodities have risen in price as much as paper. But there really is plenty of paper stock in the country. If the public will only help to conserve it.

People have felt that paper is a material of so little value that it is worth any one's time to try to save it. Now when they attempt to buy paper for business or personal use, they see the results of this policy of waste. The paper item is a big charge not merely on the business of publishing newspapers, but on practically every industry in the country.

An enormous amount of good paper is wasted in wrapping parcels needlessly. A large part of articles sold in stores could just as well be taken home without wrapping. But if you ask the clerk if you shall not take your purchase home unwrapped, he feels that the article would not present an appearance that would be creditable to his store. Customers should insist that paper be not wasted in ways that serve no useful purpose.

All old newspapers and circulars and booklets should be carefully saved and sold to the ragman, or contributed to some society that is collecting papers as a money earning proposition. Most households collect large amounts of papers in the form of letters, circulars, handbills, etc., that are commonly burned. They should be neatly folded so that they can go in with the saleable bundles of paper.

Unless the public shall be educated up to this form of economy, it is inevitable that all kinds of paper for business and personal use shall

THE DISABLED SOLDIER.

The office of the Surgeon General of the Army has begun publication of a magazine called "Carry On," devoted to the problem of disabled soldiers. While hopeful reports have been given out that most of the crippled men can be helped to attain self support, the problem is a difficult one.

When a man gets out of the hospital and has to make a living in spite of some serious handicap, he is apt to become discouraged. He finds business men glad to shake hands and congratulate him on his patriotism. When it comes to giving him a job, they want active men without handicaps.

During the man's experience in the hospital every effort has been made to minimize worry or exertion. These influences tend to deaden his initiative and sense of social responsibility. After meeting with a number of rebuffs, he may settle down into a dependent state, feeling that it is of no use to try.

Here we see the absolute necessity for schools for training crippled men to forms of work in which their handicap will not interfere much. There are plenty of things they can do. Many of them if properly educated will earn more than ever before. Previously they perhaps depended on their hands, now they may be able to use their brains or technical skill.

Either the government must take charge of this work or we must generously provide it by private contribution. The relatives of disabled men should insist that they take the training in the schools that will be provided. It will seem like a good deal of effort to many of them, but it will save their lives from defeat and discouragement. Without such training for the disabled, the nation will have to care by charity for a great body of dependents. With such training, their productive power in the aggregate may be no less than before their injury.

JOBS FOR DRAFT MEN

(Indianapolis News)

Advertisements for help continue to indicate a discrimination against men within the draft ages. "Not subject to draft," "must be draft exempt," "not in draft" and "above draft age," or other phrases to the same effect frequently describe a condition of employment. As far as some classes of work are concerned the employers are not culpable. The work-or-light order prevents the use of disabled men in certain jobs regarded as non-useful and the employer might get into difficulties with the government if he hired drafted men for such work, to say nothing of the cost of replacing the employee with another perhaps before the first had become acquainted with his job. But other employers in essential industries are making the same condition respecting the employees' exemption from service. The drafted men looking over the advertisements is likely to get the idea that he is an undesirable citizen. Lacking the opportunity to take a high place among his countrymen. On him rests the greatest obligation in respect to the war. Others share the incidental burdens, but he alone is obliged to give up all when his country calls. The accident of age places him in that position, in a preferred class, a selected man to whom honor is due. If no special favors are shown him, the least he can expect is that he will not be discriminated against.

The attitude of the employer is understandable. It costs money, and it takes trouble to hire a new man, and the man within the draft ages, unless he is an exempt, is not likely to stay long enough on the job to be worth it. Nevertheless the registered man stands ready to make the greatest sacrifice, and he is justified in expecting willingness on the part of others to make smaller sacrifices. That drafted men will not be considered, when they are otherwise eligible for the work for which help is sought, is like a slap in the face. If there are good reasons why drafted men cannot be used in any particular job, it should, at least, be possible to inform them of their disqualification less summarily. Some employers, it is notable, are specifying "drafted men accepted." That is the spirit.

Athenian Military Training.

The Athenians had a mode of universal military training more like that of modern Europe than were most of the other military training schemes of the ancient world. Every Athenian youth was compelled to do two years of garrison duty at Piræus, the Port of Athens.

LICKING COUNTY SOLDIERS' LETTERS

Prior's Letter.

The Advocate has received the following epistle from Leo T. Prior who is now in France.

Somewhere France, July 13, 1918
Dear Friend
A chorus of gladness in cheer was the 324th safe arrival in France. "A joy of welcome to our Sammies everywhere." France is a most beautiful country—yet many things surprise a relic of antiquity—the wooden shoes the folks wear the oven drawing the cart, characteristic of the scenes in pictures as were in the geography of the fourth grade. Its people are good and true in Faith, Catholic, the crucifixion figure of Christ on the cross brings to each of us a thought for the soul as we see the women and little children bow their heads in prayer and bless themselves. From time immemorial Tourists have written of this great country, so the writer, at this late date will make no effort "Literary" in a review of what almost every one knows. Mr. Spencer no doubt understands, so will confine my effort to our "Trip" across the pond, which was wonderful in delight of our boys?

The opening scenes in comment of my comrades on a "Sea voyage" were very disquieting to say at least when all began to have that sinking feeling, the first blow came when the "Boat" began to move and more real comedy in "Fatty Arbuckle style" came as we moved onward "Fast as a funeral," the captain who ran the boat had a profound respect, for something possibly hidden under the water. The second blow came when someone discovered "that we could not see land." But the third which came hard upon the first two was still more staggering, "Sea Sick." Every one hanging over the deck feeding the little fishes and the thought, as we gazed down into the water that at any moment, "the bottom end of the boat might be knocked out," made us deathly pale. Bill Howard looked very childish in spite of his uniform many times Bill said "So long," said he did not care to say "Goodbye" but thought it best while the opportunity was good, and like Earl Binder who the first few hours out was afraid the boat might sink; the same evening did not care whether "it" did or not. Henry Stauch hiccoughed—mus' sing a song Jes, one, always starting with a loud grin, but as he would reach a high note, a wave would rock the ship and Henry collapse his chin on his chest. It was certainly a safe enough gathering with the ferocious water outside. Ralph Brumback looked both cross and quint edgy, but it was no use a speechless chicken dealer is impossible socially. Congratulations go to George Rohan who was a master of steps one, two, three, his knowledge of dancing, an old sailor too, doubtless stood him in good stead "On rock a bye Baby" motion of boat. Bill Vogel spoke beautifully of the sea. How it filled his heart with ecstasy and set him in a higher sphere. No doubt of this. Even Eddie Couch saw purple Elephants and green Kittens. Ross Jenkins, had in truth, the realization of a Barber's dream, a trip abroad, one hand on the deck rail, as it were and the other on the razor in his pocket. Doubt as to whether or not Harry Richards often expressed a wish to go back to the "Sicks" with the cows and chickens on the old farm, north of Newark. Hugo Thurner found it very difficult to shave on boat and in the act of removing his beard occasioned a few dimples and a roman nose. "Beautiful thing" he is now. Jerome Norpel said the ocean brought out the best in soldiers, made them quite, so considerate Ralph Priest looking at him, pathetically, took for granted what he said was true, but Merle Orr objected as "Lonny" passed expectantly between words, Bill Langman then hypnotized them in their argument by singing "Just about a year from now." Just as we were philosophically resigning ourselves to the worst Boots Raisin and Earl Forbes brought the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad on the boat, which made us more dizzy, as Vic Adams said "even the worst night on the sea has no comparison." Bernard Kates kept eating "hard biscuits" apparently entirely indifferent to this conversation and boat riding. Pete Fallon was present too, but his eyes were glazed, most expressive in thought of "Her back home."

Mose Floyd the writer can recollect him in deep arguments with the ship's crew as to when the war would be over. Steve Costello and Alfred Oberfield always ate their meals very late for reason of explanation to each other the ship's defenses. Of how things were managed by the ship's crew, and the way things should be done. The June's calm ocean with beautiful days of sunshine and moonlight nights, brought to Alva Gleason and George Brennan sweet dreams of love in a future time with their sweethearts back home. Alva said, how wonderful a little white house will be situated in a garden Suburb with music and flowers, along a road with out neighbors, and George said a few pigs, cows and chickens too. They both drank a toast of "pure water" to "His" the sweetest girl in the world.

Among Joe Gainer's accomplishments was the fact that he had lots of money, the writer and John Sachs coached him incessantly in spending "it" the modern way. Lawrence wrote tired all his enemies and friends alike—How do you do? A trip across the ocean made him think of a future state.

Bud Horning would wake from a deep dreamless sleep of "Hammock-swinging" early in the morning looking for a fight. "Feeling better now" said Francis O'Shaughnessy. I thought it was a case of going down where McGinty went. Ross Simpson was always in a conspicuous place, however, his table manners had utterly fallen from him. Everything he picked up was "dropped." Angus Butler shivered half way across, grateful to himself, for not being dizzy all the way. Sandy Owens said the entire Regiment were converted to goodness and prayer while on the water, but as soon as the hit "land," he lost all of his money, cigarettes and chewing tobacco. Walter Greely met a badly rude Englishman on the boat most clever sort of fellow, daughter knew who said "Balloo-May-good luck presaire on Walter didn't quite know what the old "Blighter" meant, but found he would find out later. The compliments of the entire 324th Regiment go to Sergeant Steve Costello and able assistants Earl Forbes and John Stero who watched faithfully one of the "Ships Big Guns" in anticipation of Submarine's attack. Like Napoleon never flinched once, while Forbes shivered only twice. Will conclude in comment of "Trip across," and write just a little of our present abode, a town "Somewhere in France." Many are the cafe's where one may wish his comrades "Here's a go." Flick Hoffman says there is one "Every other door." Soldiers are allowed wine in moderation, and it is appreciated in that grateful that no one over estimates his capacity. Of course there are up and down's and in's and outs in every town and Art Keyes got busy in this department on the first act. The other night "Red" Hatton and Jack Kieley, after a few drinks of cider, let go some of their heavy-humor, but as they dished out some good one's too. We all managed to endure their funnies. "For reason" we were broke. Ray Wintermute cleverly suggested an atmosphere of a cafe back "Home" with a cigar, a chew of plug and a tooth pick in his face at the same time.

The children are beautiful "Over Here" but as George Coyle concludes where are the pretty girls? said he had not seen one, since his arrival the possibility of finding anything on this side of the sea shore, "To take back is remote at present yet" Paul Mossman says We did not come "Over Here" for the air and scenery. One thing we know is that the 324th Reg. is a horse-drawn instead of being motorized, much to the delight of Ross Simpson. Merle Sweetzer knows the hitching strap from the halter and the rest of us know about as much. There is some five hours difference in time Over Here. When the Regiment are eating supper "It" is about noon "back in Newark."

Battery "B" extend their compliments of Jack Savolio in a long and happy "Life of Bliss" to Louie Faren in remembrance of other days in Camp Sherman. Will draw to a conclusion in that cheer that the Boys are all Jim Dandy. Ever always, Very sincerely yours, Leo T. Prior.

Letter from Lieut. Crow.
Mrs Mary E Miller, of Jackson-town, has received the following letter from her nephew, Lieut. Allen G. Crow, who is now at Bordeaux, with the 35th railway engineers.

Bordeaux, July 23, 1918
Dear Aunt Mary and Verna:—I have tried several times to write you, but it seems I never could get a letter started. Anyhow my intentions were good.

Most of the time I have been in France has been spent in Bordeaux. If you will get down your old school geography you will see it is a good way from the front, about 625 miles from Paris.

Bordeaux is one of the important cities of France, ranking third or fourth, and has a population of about 250,000. It is a very old city, and there are still remains in some places of the old city walls and gates and an old Roman amphitheatre which were built during the Roman occupation of this part of the country several years before Christ.

Bordeaux is a great wine port. In one of the large squares in the city are several thousands of wine barrels waiting for shipment. There are little wine shops or cafes all over the city. They have no screens over the doors and even have little tables on the pavement where drinks are served. The French think no more of drinking wine than we at home do of drinking lemonade or soda water.

According to the news from the front, the end of this struggle will be hurried along considerably if we only keep the good work up. Well, let me hear from you as soon as you can, as a letter is a mighty valuable thing here. Yours Lieut. Allen G. Crow, M. R. C. 35th Engrs. (Rw) 35th Engrs. American Ex. Forces, Bordeaux, France. A. "Dear Mother and All—Well, mom, I am just writing you a few lines to let you hear from me so that you'll know that I am all right and feeling fine. We had a very fine trip across. I was pretty sick for three days, but I wasn't alone, for I guess nearly everyone was sick. Oscar Murdock was the sickest of anybody I ever seen. At times he would turn a real green; he says when he comes back he will come back around the road. Mother, I got your letter before I left camp. I don't send any more stamps as our postage is free now and I won't need them. We haven't got organized yet, and it's not much I can tell you, but the next letter I write I'll try and have more to say. I wrote Bill a letter the day before I left camp; if you write him you might give him my address. I am going to write a few lines to Ethel but don't know what to say as this censoring of letters is new to me. So I'm just a little afraid just what to put in. But I'll get used to that all right. Well, mom; I hope you and all the rest are well. I am feeling fine and getting along great, so be brave and don't worry, mother. Tell everyone I said 'hello'. Lots of love

NEWS OF DEATH OF TWO SONS RECEIVED WITHIN SHORT SPACE

Zanesville, O., Aug. 14.—Within the space of a few minutes Tuesday night Mrs. Mary Sutton of 728 Orchard street, received the news of the tragic deaths of two of her sons, Thomas Merle having been drowned at Gallipoli, and J. Wilford electrocuted at the old Blankenbuhler ice cream plant in this city, about 9 o'clock last evening.

State hospital authorities found the body of Thomas Merle Sutton, aged 21, late Tuesday afternoon, in a bad state of decomposition and it cannot be shipped to this city they wired relatives.

Late last evening while J. Wilford Sutton, aged 35, ice cream manufacturer, was working at his plant at Canal and Third street, something went wrong with the machinery connected with a freezer. As he was attempting to adjust it he came in contact with a live wire from a motor and was killed almost instantly.

ANOTHER NURSE HAS ENROLLED FOR SERVICE

Interest in the enrolling of nurses in the student nurses' reserve, continues and another name was added to the list Wednesday morning. Mrs. Day G. Sohn of 41 1-2 South Fifth street enlisted.

Mrs. Sohn is a daughter of Mrs. Mary Unterhager of Highland Fruit farm and daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Sohn formerly of Newark but now of Akron.

Application blanks and supplies are nearly exhausted and it is suggested that those having the literature and not requiring it any longer, turn it in.

Milady's Boudoir

Rest for the Nervous.

"I feel a thousand times better," remarked a woman in response to her friend's assertion that she looked years younger. "No, I have not been away, she said, 'but for a week I have been on an anti-telephone vacation and I have refused to admit callers. I haven't opened a letter or a newspaper since. If more of us leading the strenuous everyday life of the city, would retire to our quiet room and refuse admittance to the world we would be much better able to keep under the strain of modern life and we would have a physical and mental release."

Each day we arise with the worry of our mail, the news of the world in our paper, the continual call to the telephone and the tiresome business of entertaining unexpected callers. We feel at times that we would give anything to be able to get away from it all. This is absolutely possible if one only wishes to do it without even leaving our own comfortable home.

Our desire to run away is not where is simply the craving of the nerves to be allowed to relax and rest up.

So stop up your phone, ignore your letters and telegrams, ignore the furious ringing of the door bell and when you come back to the world rested and serene, you will be surprised to find that it has gone on just as well without your worry and strain.

Our Boys and Girls

Quite often the upholstery of the baby carriage becomes faded, worn or soiled, but a new one can be made very easily. Cut a paper pattern the size and shape of the back and sides of the carriage and make a cover to fit out of white pique or a natural colored linen. Find with a wash brand and make buttonholes along the edges. On the upholstery of the carriage sew pearl buttons and button the cover on.

Little children, especially those who are nervous and highly strung, are disposed to keep on crying when they have once begun. When you wish a child to stop sobbing get him to take a drink of cold water. It almost always will stop the sobbing immediately.

Don't forget that children are more seriously affected by impure air than grown ups. Don't forget that lowered vitality makes children more liable to catch any infectious disease. Don't say "don't" to your little ones. Remember to tell them where to do, do not what they are not to do.

Every Day Etiquette

"I wish to send out some dinner invitations soon and would like to ask how long before the dinner they should be sent out," queried Fanny.

"It is customary to send dinner invitations ten days before the event," answered her society friend.

The hours were spent in a social way, and a Victrola program was enjoyed in the afternoon. At the noon hour a bounteous repast was served on the spacious lawn. This meeting was the third annual meeting held at the Pitzer home. Those present were: Mesdames David Burns of Spokane, Wash., Edgar Reed, Chas. Long, Nellie Keenan, Milford Griffith, Silas Seelander, Lionel Springer, L. J. Brown, Robert McCartney, Mas Kuhn, H. B. Heatwell, C. E. Wynn, Harry Marple, George Conkling, W. M. Clem, C. Settles, Wm. Bradshaw, W. H. Baker, Mary Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. John Dushmeier, Misses Anna Bradshaw, Helen Brown, Mary Courson, Ruth Brown, Catherine Parkison, Master Willard Brown and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Pitzer.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Price entertained on Sunday at their country home, northwest of the city, the following guests:

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith and two children, Mr. Penwell of Akron, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Best and son Paul of Kenmore, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blackbridge and sons, Russell and Orval of Centerburg, John Robinson of Illinois, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sperry, Mrs. Laura Sperry of Utica, Mr. and Mrs. Orr Gist, Mrs. Mary Gist, Ed Gist, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Gist, Mrs. Margaret Davis, Frank Price of Newark.

Charming in its spirit of camaraderie and delightful in its social aspect the reception given last night by the Second Presbyterian church for the departing pastor, Rev. and Mrs. Don Tullis, was a fitting climax of a series of receptions, luncheons and farewell dinners which have been arranged in their honor.

The reception was arranged on the lawn which was rendered more attractive by the profusion of flowers, and the U. S. flag. Among the flowers were a quantity of sunflowers, the state flower of Kansas where Rev. Mr. Tullis has lately been located in war work with the Y. M. C. A. and to continue which he resigned his Newark pastorate.

The members of the Second Presbyterian church were hosts and hostesses and the guests were the members of the First church and the Rotary club and their wives and the numerous friends of Mr. and Mrs. Tullis over the city.

During the evening in an intimate way, Miss Florence King, in words original presented to Rev. Mr. Tullis an American flag, which on being unfurled was found to contain a handsome leather bill folder, the latter being liberally filled with U. S. currency. The whole was indicative that the congregation was considerate of the material welfare of Mr. Tullis and appreciative of his untiring efforts on behalf of the congregation. The pastorate of Mr. Tullis in Newark has been most successful, as is shown in the growth of the church and the number of baptisms during the period of his charge. A beautiful lavalliere was presented Mrs. Tullis by the Sunday School orchestra as a token of the esteem felt for her by the members, as Mrs. Tullis organized and made the Sunday School orchestra possible. Another gift to the departing pastor which was on display was a Winchester shot gun, the gift of Mr. Lawrence Krieger and Mr. John Swartz.

During their stay in the city Dr. and Mrs. Tullis have not only endeared themselves to their congregation but they have been active in civic events, and especially has Mr. Tullis been active in war pursuits. Lending his aid in every way possible. They leave for their future work in Ft. Leavenworth, Kas., followed by the best wishes of their many friends.

The members of the Whatsoever Circle of The King's Daughters will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Wright Wyeth in Hudson avenue on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

A delightful six o'clock picnic dinner was enjoyed by the Phi Sigma Chi members and their friends at their cottage at Buckeye Lake Tues-

Pink and white asters centered the table on Tuesday evening when Miss Katherine Sturgeon entertained with an announcement dinner, announcing her engagement to Mr. Randall E. Duncan of Cleveland.

The pink ribbons were suspended from the centerpiece, to individual nut cups. On the cups miniature bluebirds carried the envelopes with the announcement cards. The wedding will be solemnized on Saturday morning, August 17, at the bride's home.

Miss Sturgeon is the daughter of Mr. Clifford L. Sturgeon of North Fifth street and has been a student at Wooster College. PRACTICE OF MEDICINE GUESSWORK.

It has been said that the practice of medicine at best is simply a game of guesswork, because the action of drugs varies to a great degree upon different individuals; but when a medicine has lived for forty years, constantly growing in sales and popularity there can be no greater proof of its merit. Such a medicine is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that famous old root and herb remedy, now recognized from shore to shore as the standard remedy for female ills.

LEONARD WHITEHILL GIVES UP LIFE IN THE BATTLE ON MARNE

Harry Whitehill of Washington, Pa., who is looking after the interests of his father at Toledo, today received word that his brother, Leonard L. Whitehill, 26, had been killed in action, July 30, on the Marne.

Corporal Whitehill was a member of the headquarters company of the 11th infantry, and had been acting as orderly. He is the son of M. F. Whitehill of Washington, Pa., and was located in Newark several years, while overseeing of interests of his father here. He resided with Frank Miller, 94 East Main street, and was popular in athletic circles, having played football here. He was one time star of the Washington & Jefferson college team.

After leaving Newark he went to Kansas, where he was successful in a large way in investments. He enlisted there and was assigned to Camp Hancock, Ga., and then to a New York camp.

He has been overseas but about two months, and the news of his death came as a great shock as his friends did not know he was in action.

HOT WINDS COOK THE NEBRASKA CORN CROP

Harry P. Kutz, press representative of Campbell Brothers' minstrels, writes at Omaha, Neb., August 12:

"Please have my paper mailed here care general delivery, indefinitely. We are located here at one of the parks for August and September, on account of railroad conditions, incident to the war and bad crop conditions in Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas. We decided to locate at a park for the balance of the summer. The hot winds the past 10 days have ruined the corn crop and other crops. The railroads are short of crews and cars, so it is almost impossible to have a positive schedule. It is 110 here in postoffice at this writing, but I suppose you get your share of it also."

NEW FREIGHT RULE ON OHIO ELECTRIC

The local Ohio Electric office has received word from the general office at Springfield that all shipping over the lines is to be put on a new ruling, effective August 15.

Under this ruling shipments are to be accepted under three general conditions, the cash basis, requiring payment of "prepaid" charges to forwarding agent at the time when freight is received, and "collect" charges when freight is delivered; the one-day basis, allowing the payment to take place during the day, not necessarily at the exact time the shipment is received or delivered, and credit basis, permitting three days to elapse before payment. In case of failure to pay within the prescribed time the concession will be automatically cancelled. This action has been taken in accordance with governmental suggestion. Similar action is being taken by steam lines.

DRILLED IN A BIG GAS WELL NEAR NASHPORT

Drillers for the Carter Oil company got under control Tuesday a stand on the Albert Mattingly farm and estimate it to be good for 7,000,000 cubic feet of gas. Because of the force of the gusher it has never been cleaned out. The escaping gas can be heard at Nashport, more than two miles distant.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GREAT ALLIED OFFENSIVE IN FRANCE

French artillery pits recaptured from Huns by French, German plane shot down by French, and captured German field piece.

These pictures were taken back of the advancing French forces doing their part in the great allied offensive. The upper picture shows French artillery pits taken by the Germans in their drive and now recaptured by the French while hurrying the Hun back. The German airplane shown above was shot down by the French in the Oise section. The crosses on it have replaced the iron cross design. The new crosses resemble, from a distance both the Red Cross insignia and the emblem of Switzerland. Germany has replied to Switzerland's complaint that the iron cross resembled the British circle with a bull's eye too much. The lower picture shows a captured German field piece which the French soldier would like to take home for a souvenir.

History Gardens.
Gardens in Japan are laid out so as to suggest scenes in Japanese history. Miniature landscapes are arranged so as to recall well-known spots in history, and suggest the events that have taken place there.

New Source of Alcohol.
Alcohol is being made in Ciudad Juarez, Mex., from a plant called sotol, which grows uncultivated in Mexico and southern Texas. Consul E. A. Dow reports that from 75 to 250 gallons of alcohol can be produced from one ton of the plant.

It pays to be even tempered. Wise is the doctor who never loses patients.

TRAWLER ESCAPES FROM A SUBMARINE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
An Atlantic Port, August 14.—A German submarine sighted off the tip of Cape Cod early last night, fired a torpedo at the steam trawler Walrus, which missed it by a narrow margin. Captain Clayton Morrissey of the fisherman reported on arrival here today. Because of the fog Captain Morrissey said he was able to escape and warned other craft of the danger.

Swiss Adopt 24-Hour Clock.

The Swiss federal council, under date of April 19, 1918, has decreed that the Swiss transportation systems,
the management of the telegraph system, the customs service, the federal government works and the remaining institutions under federal government management shall, up to the return of normal conditions, but not before May 1, 1919, establish the 24-hour day, numbering the hours from 1 to 24, beginning at midnight. The Swiss federal railway department is empowered to fix the definite date upon which the 24-hour day is to be enforced.

Once There Was a Really

Neat Scheme.

Has His Price.

HOW THEY WON OUT

Singers Thought Up a Really Neat Scheme.

Has His Price.

Little Conspiracy That Seems to Point to Truth of the Familiar Old Adage That Every Man

Has His Price.

Once there was a male quartet which was booked by a lyceum bureau that would allow a date to be canceled only in the event of a performer's death.

This quartet in question was booked to sing at Buzzard, N. D., one cold winter night. The time-table told the boys to go to Terminal, which was the end of the line, and hire a flyerman to take them over to Buzzard.

They arrived at Terminal on a Saturday morning. The hotel was not at all bad. The first train out was to go Monday. The flyerman said that he would convey them to Buzzard for $10.
It was 22 miles. He intimated that he thought he could notice indications of a robust blizzard approaching. He said it was not uncommon for parties to get lost in blizzards and freeze to death before being found. It was spitting snow at noon.

The boys went over to the telegraph office, wired the bureau, explained about the long drive to Buzzard, and the dangers with which the journey was fraught, and asked that they be permitted to cancel the engagement.
They offered to compensate the bureau to the extent of its commission if permitted to blow the date.

Their answer from the bureau was an emphatic denial of permission to cancel the date.

And yet the boys did not fill the engagement at Buzzard.

There was only one flyerman in Terminal, and his price for the drive to Buzzard was $10, so the boys chipped in and paid him $20 to write out a statement to the effect that he had refused to make the trip in the face of an approaching storm. They sent his statement to the bureau.

Moral: "Every man has his price." And "where there's a will there is usually a way."

Helress a Successful Artist.

Helress to one of the greatest fortunes in America, born to a life of ease and luxury, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney is a shining example of the type of American woman who is combining successfully a career while she performs her duty to her home and society, says the Washington Times.

The former Gertrude Vanderbilt, daughter of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, has for the last ten years worked untiringly as a sculptor. Splendid examples of her art have been exhibited in New York, many of them selected in competition in which the best artists of the time have been her competitors. Among Mrs. Whitney's best known works are the Titanic memorial, which has been erected in the national capital; a fountain in the New Arlington hotel at Washington, exhibited at the Panama-Pacific exposition in California; another massive fountain of Aztec design in the bureau of American republics, also in Washington. Mrs. Whitney has also done some splendid work in oil, water color and crayon.

War Stops "Sea Bathing."

Humorists have recently added to the list of the war's alleged horrors the fact that Londoners can no longer bathe in sea water in their own homes. The facts in the case are reported by Popular Mechanics "Magazine, as follows: It seems that for years one of the English railways has maintained a "sea-water" service. For the small sum of 12 cents it has delivered to any customer a large can of real ocean water for bathing purposes, calling for the can the following day.
Now, however, Londoners, who pride themselves on being "the best tubbed people in the world" must forego these "sea baths" for the railway has discontinued its service on account of war conditions. Henceforth fresh water must suffice for cleansings.

Swiss Adopt 24-Hour Clock.

The Swiss federal council, under

that the Swiss transportation systems,
the management of the telegraph sys-

government works and the remaining
institutions under federal government management shall, up to the return of normal conditions, but not before May

"Yes," replied Mr. Cobble, with a thoughtful look.

"No doubt you expect him to help you on the farm this summer?"

OFFENSIVE HOUSE

By AGNES G. BROGAN.

(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union.)

High on the bluff surrounding the busy city, were built its choicest homes. Very exclusive indeed, was that section named "Hillcrest." Here no house might be erected beneath a certain large stated sum, and each residence must have its accompanying number of acres.

Hillcrest was proud of its fauntains, and its select society. One might ride along the perfect roads without fear of one displeasing sight, in all its ideal appointments there was but one jarring note—the farmhouse at the top of the hill. In vain, petitions had been offered for its removal, in vain, influential had sought its purchase—the offending house was not for sale.

Miss Perkins, the obstinate owner, had lived there since childhood and refused to part from the home of her fathers.

"Wild hollyhocks poking their heads over our stone wall," complained Mrs.
Forrest, "giving one the appearance of having been planted on this side. And that woman's voice screeching for "June-Rose" at all times, it's maddening! What a ridiculous name for a girl, helper or whatever she may be!"

"It is her name," Miss Sylvia Forrest replied, "the delivery boy told my maid that the girl's proper name is Rose, and the first one, June! I wish she would whisper to me the secret of her peaches and cream complexion."

"My dear!" exclaimed her mother,
"can you not think of some more interesting topic than the impossible people next door?"

Miss Sylvia laughed. "Well, yes," she said, "the great Beverly arrives this afternoon, Douglas Beverly, the lionized artist. The Schuylers are giving the first reception."

Mrs. Forrest's eyes were alight with excitement. "The Beverlys are one of our oldest families, my dear," she en-thusiased. "Long before Hillcrest was planned as a residence section, the Beverly place was the finest one in town. Douglas went abroad when you were a little girl. I believe his mother has been absent for a daughter-in-law from the British aristocracy, but Douglas comes home free and famous."

Mrs. Forrest paused. "You are exceedingly attractive Sylvia," she said suggestively.

"So are many Hillcrest girls," that young woman added. Douglas Beverly later came to form the same opinion.

So absorbed was he in contemplation of the prodigal old-fashioned flowers, that the offensive house escaped his notice; and when he did regard the quaint white building with green shuttered doors, it was as a charmed background, to his new hastily planned picture—"The Old Home Garden."

Then, like the spirit of the garden,
June-Rose with her soft pink cheeks, and her pink cambric dress, appeared before him.

When he was sure that the girl was not part of his imaginary brain picture, the artist advanced, "I would like to ask permission to make a sketch of your home," he said, "to be permitted to make a study of these wondrous flower-colors."

"I will take you to my aunt," June-Rose replied, and she led the way through the green shuttered door.

"Your great Beverly like other men of genius is spoiled," Mrs. Forrest complained to her daughter. "No one seems to have found the royal path to his favor. He ignores invitations; is he busy?"

Miss Sylvia curled her lip. "Why haven't you heard? He spends his waking hours, sketching that disreputable old house next door, the girl June-Rose, usually hovering in the background. Madame Beverly is frantic, and his father is trying to persuade Douglas to take another world tour.
Can you imagine what it would mean, in their standing, if Douglas should take it into his head to marry that nobody? The very house has been an eye-sore to them all along, but this penitent girl, who, of course, is playing the artist to win a fortune—"

Mrs. Forrest raised her hands in horror, then she laughed sharply.
"Well," she said, "those Beverlys have been looking down on the rest of us all our lives and if it should happen, but it won't," she ended decidedly, "the thing is
